

<http://demilitarisation.org/spip.php?article81>

APRED

The human right to peace. What it is.

- RECHERCHE / RESEARCH
- HUMAN RIGHT TO PEACE / LE DROIT HUMAIN A LA PAIX
- Peace as a human right
-

Date de mise en ligne : mercredi 1er mai 2013

Copyright © APRED - Tous droits réservés

[The Human Right to Peace, is :]

- The right to be at peace and to remain at peace, The right to seek peace, to find it and share it.
- The right of each and everyone to ensure compliance with the right to peace in all circumstances.
- The right to have conflict solutions methods (ideally without further damage) easily available.
- The right to effective conflict prevention and violence prevention, before they occur and to control if violence or conflict nevertheless du occur, that prevention was sufficient.
- The right to see that enough resources are allocated to the promotion of peace and peace education.
- The right to require governments to promote and respect peace and and the right to regular reports on their efforts in favor of peace.

[For the implementation of the right to peace :]

- Frequently recall that Article 28 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights says an internation and social ordrer enabling all other rights to be fulfilled should prevail,
- Frequently recall the obligation of States to abide by peace. (UN Charter, Article 2, among others)
- Expand the application of the right to security (for example, Article 5 of the European Convention on Human Rights).
- Encourage parliaments (small or large) to adopt resolutions and binding instruments recognizing the human right to peace.

APRED is at your service to promote and respect the human right to peace and support the idea of a Swiss Coalition for the human right to peace \(In French\) ..

You can also find more information on the human right to peace on the site of the global alliance for the right to peace .